

Water In Crisis

In South Africa, people have been diagnosed with many diseases, caused by water scarcity

People are dying and getting sick, because of something that if they don't have enough of,
they are at risk: Water.

The leaves crash on the ground in disappointment, caused by a shortage

When all leaves fall, it left the trees looking old and unpleasant
And the leaves are brown and crunchy

Almost everyday of a kids life in Africa, they spend their time fetching water for their families

Instead of getting a good education

For children under the age of five, health is very important

And with dirty water to drink and use to bathe, it is very easy for the kids to get sick

The leaves spread out covering the ground, no longer enchanted-looking

And all trees start to die slowly

Without humans having the right amount of healthy trees,

Some things that are created by trees, start to decrease

Sadly, the leaves are starting to go missing a little bit each day

With barely any time of living for people in Africa that are going through water scarcity,

Everyone is doing all they can to resolve the problem